AYUSH Medical Camp organized at IUST

Awantipora, Aug. 23: The Centre for AYUSH Science, Islamic University of Science and Technology (IUST) organized a free medical camp in Awantipora, aimed at promotion of healthy lifestyle through AYUSH system of medicines. Nearly 250 persons, predominantly women, benefited from the camp, receiving free consultations, medications, health tips, and comprehensive checkups.

This camp is part of the university's ongoing health outreach initiatives aimed at extending accessible healthcare to underserved communities. By fostering awareness of traditional and alternative medical practices, the Centre for AYUSH Science continues to play a pivotal role in improving public health and well-being.
