IUST Hosts Induction Program to Welcome New Students of the School of Health Sciences

Awantipora, October 6: The Islamic University of Science and Technology (IUST) organized an Induction Program for newly admitted students of its two Nursing Colleges and the Centre for Vocational Studies under the School of Health Sciences. Held under the supervision of the Dean Academic Affairs and organized by the Office of the Dean of Students, the program aimed to orient students to the university's academic framework, policies, and support systems.

Prof. A. H. Moon (Dean Academic Affairs), Dr. Mir Hashim Rasool (Dean of Students/Senior Proctor), Principals of the Nursing Colleges, and officials from the Examination, Academics, and IT Directorates interacted with the students and briefed them on academic structure, code of conduct, examinations, and student support facilities. The Deans emphasized academic integrity and IUST's commitment to an inclusive, and student-centered environment at the campus. The event concluded with an interactive session, allowing students to engage with university officials and seek clarifications about campus life and services.
