

Department of Computer Science & Engineering

Research Lab

The Research lab was established in 2020. The lab provides state-of-the-art systems and tools to teach students about various technologies.

The PhD scholars and research assistants are working on Diverse domains including deep learning, machine learning, reinforcement learning and block chain technologies. The lab is equipped with highly configured workstations with latest GPU's and is supported by High Performance Computing lab for diverse research work.

